LOOKLIVE

Looklive is looking for Performance Managers

Looklive contextualizes popular media with shoppable content

Looklive builds smart technology that identifies products in video and images. While we're building the Artificial Intelligence we need the smartest computers on the planet to set the example and fill the gaps. That smartest computer to date is human.

Our team of content editors shows the AI how to find the most exotic items in scenes from shows, music videos and paparazzi pictures. Don't worry, a computer won't be able to fully replace the human mind for a number of years, so we'll be needing humans for a while.

The editors identify products in scenes and appearances. They use our software to guide them through the process and are experts in optimizing it to make it more efficient. The data they create is used on looklive.com and sold to our business partners.

We are looking for an experienced (performance) manager, who:

- Knows how to motivate people
- Is obsessed with performance metrics
- Sees patterns, designs processes and monitors output
- Is proficient in English (speaking and writing)
- Brings 3+ years of experience as a line manager
- Extra bonus points for experience in managing a Call Center, Editorial Unit or Service Desk

You have:

- A professional attitude to work
- A fun personality
- High quality standards

We offer:

- A great team
- Monthly bbq's
- A competitive salary
