

LOOKLIVE

Looklive is looking for a Web Developer!

Looklive builds products on multiple sources of metadata. We identify the clothing that fashion influencers are wearing and provide additional similar and bargain items. We also gather other metadata from popular media and the users of our products in order to create unique style profiles.

Our team works according to lean and agile principles and is multidisciplinary. Your role within the team will be that of a generalist, with a slight preference for building intuitive user interface components. You should feel comfortable working together with a team while making design decisions and implementing them. Ask for forgiveness, not for permission :-)

We are looking for a senior developer who:

- Has a degree in Interactive Media, Computer Science, or anything proving you're able to learn and code stuff.
- Is proficient in English (speaking and writing)
- Brings 2+ years of experience as a professional developer
- Has experience with Python, Javascript and preferably other programming languages
- You get extra bonus points for experience with Flask, SQLAlchemy or ElasticSearch

You have:

- A professional attitude to work
- A fun personality
- High quality standards

We offer:

- A great team
- Monthly bbq's
- A competitive salary
